City Starts Swift Action on Flood Protection Measures

Mayor Louk Asks Residents to Make Survey Before The Rain

Flood protection against the coming rains of the Fall and Winter seasons is foremost in the minds of all Sierra Madreans. Members of the City Council Tuesday night outlined additional means of providing the necessary protection when they authorized City Administrator Lawrence Bevington to plan for the installation of 12 inch planks along both sides of Lima St. and at all other vulnerable points.

An outfall pipe is to be completed at the northern end of Santa Anita Drive to eliminate danger to many acres of homes in that area in the event of a heavy rainfall. The total cost of the project is variously estimated at $61,000 to $68,000, but $25,000 will be paid by the Los Angeles County Flood Control District and $25,000 by a private subdivider of land, contingent upon the successful completion of the subdivision.

The amount in excess of $50,000 will be borne mutually by the cities of Sierra Madre and Arcadia, but the percentage to be paid by each city is still a subject of negotiation. Thirty-eight per cent of the endangered property is located in Sierra Madre and 62% in Arcadia. Councilman Pratt moved that the City of Sierra Madre assume 25% of the liability, stipulating that the total cost to the city should not exceed $35,000.

Mayor Louk emphasized the fact that although the outlined measures will provide a much greater degree of safety than we had last year, it would be foolish for Sierra Madre residents to become complacent.

"Unless you have experienced it—if you have not stood on a levy 50 feet wide and 12 feet high, as I have, and felt it moving beneath your feet, it is impossible to believe the tremendous force of turbulent water, or the split second speed with which it destroys," he said.

Mayor Louk pointed out that each property owner should survey for himself the protective measures soon to be completed and should then supplement them with barricades of his own if he deems such action necessary.

Brush-Happy Kids to Paint Store Windows

Gobs of goblins, ghosts, witches and ghastly things that creep, crawl and fly are scheduled to beat the All Hallow's Eve parade and swarm over the store windows of Sierra Madre, starting Saturday morning, Oct. 30.

Designed as an "artistic outlet" for brush-happy guys and dolls, the window painting has assumed a whining-ding of tremendous importance with the announcement that this year it will be sponsored by the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce.

Acres of plate glass will be provided by the merchants and prizes of real gone value and importance will be awarded the best efforts of said guys and dolls.

All of the seventh through twelfth grade boys and girls living in Sierra Madre who have not already been contacted are invited to bring their own brushes, step ladders, stools or boxes, and a few empty coffee cans, if possible, to hold paints.

Activities will start at 9:30 a.m. (the earliest arrivals will be given the choice locations). The place is Kersting Triangle where Phil Mitchell, recreation director, will have paints mixed and location assignment ready. All participating artists must be accompanied by an adult—Mom or Dad or family friend—who will keep an eye on progress and cheer contestants onward.

Loud Burglar Draws Gunfire From Police

A noisy burglar with an apparent indifference toward caution was caught by Sierra Madre police Wednesday morning after his first refusals to surrender drew gunfire from two patrolmen.

The suspect, identified as John Milton Farris, 29, of El Monte, was first seen by Mrs. Loyce Billingsley as she watched from her window at 57 N. Baldwin Ave., 30 minutes past Tuesday midnight. Calling the police, she gave a play-by-play description of Farris' operations as he entered Topper Cleaners, 48 N. Baldwin Ave., by climbing through the transom above the front entrance.

Sgt. Robert A. Heasley at the police desk made radio contact with Patrolman Morris E. Farr and John M. McDonough in a patrol car. Arriving at the scene, the patrolmen discovered both rear and front doors locked and therefore ordered the suspect to come out with his hands up. When he refused to co-operate, Farr fired twice through the front door and McDonough then blasted the lock of the rear door. The suspect came out.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Doan, owners of the 3-D's Cafe next door, heard the noise from their nearby residence and arrived at the scene to discover their malt shop had been ransacked. Previous noise, which may have attracted Mrs. Billingsley's attention, had been made by the burglar's hammering the shop's back door to splinters.

Immediate investigation, supervised by Police Chief Gordon G. McMillan, disclosed that the suspect's first entry had been at E. K. Wood Lumber Company around the corner at 38 E. Montecito, where he had taken $204, a scratch awl and a chisel. Nothing was reported stolen from the 3-D's Cafe, but $10 in small change was taken at Topper Cleaners.

SIERRA MADRE TO HAVE REAL SANTA

Yes, there is a Santa Claus and Sierra Madre will have him here in person during the Christmas season. This decision was reached at a meeting of 14 members of the Chamber of Commerce held at the City Hall Tuesday morning.

There also will be a sleigh and reindeer in the Square and every child who visits the genial fellow will receive a gift. The following committee was named by President Don Jackson: Bob Green, Virginia Sayles, Tom Schwartz, Jim Wolfe, Mrs. Harold Roberts, David Roess and Sam Simpson.

A second meeting to complete plans for Christmas season will be held Friday morning at the City Hall, Anthony Cavalli, secretary-manager of the Chamber, said this week.

Lost Hikers Cause Not So Jolly Mix-up

The Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Crew has been at it again—and so have the hikers. This time, however, the lost hikers returned home unaided and unharmed while amateur rescuers were the ones who had to be hauled out by mountainwise members of the Search and Rescue Crew.

It all began when two 16-year-old Sierra Madreans, Kent Ellerbrock and Gordon Engel, packed into Nomad Camp Friday night. Hiding their equipment the next day, they took off for Mt. Wilson, but on the return they took the wrong trail. They spent that night Saturday, without packs, flashlights or jackets—huddling together to keep warm.

In the meantime, Ken's father, Lee Ellerbrock, and a neighbor, Jim Marlin, went into the mountains at 2 a.m. Sunday to look for the boys. Came the dawn, the boys found the right trail, and returned home. Later, the senior Ellerbrock and Marlin found themselves dangerously marooned above the waterfalls near Sierra Madre Dam.

Historical Society Holds Dinner Attended by 130

There is nothing more heart warming than meeting old friends, and this axiom was demonstrated last Saturday when more than 130 persons gathered for the annual reunion dinner held by the Sierra Madre Historical Society in the Woman's Clubhouse.

This year a new feature was introduced when Dr. R. Pease led the group in old-time singing. C. W. Jones, president of the society, gave an interesting account of a recent revisit to the "Mother Lode Country" and C. F. Shoop, president of the Pasadena Historical Society gave a brief account of the "Railway to the Stars," based on the life of Professor Thaddeus Lowe, of the famous Lowe family, for whom Mt. Lowe was named.

A pleasant unannounced feature of the program came when Miss Lulu Moore, City librarian, was presented a token of appreciation from the Library Board. Presentation was made by Miss Elizabeth Steinberger, President of the board. Webster Vannier also spoke of her 31 years of devotion to the problems and development of the library.

Miss Steinberger, representing the Ross family, said in making her presentation that her mother was a member of the board which had selected Miss Moore and that the choice had certainly been an excellent one.

All members of the society agreed that they are happy that Miss Moore is about to see the realization of a dream for a new building which will provide greater capacity and ease of operation.

BAD CHECK ARTIST APPEARS ON SCENE

They must be coming to California for the winter. Or, so it seems! For within the last three weeks, Sierra Madre has been hit by three different types of crooks. The latest to infest our midst uses a baby in arms as accomplice.

They operate like this: A man or woman carrying a baby writes a check on the Bank of America, Alhambra or Pasadena branches, presents a Social Security card and driver's license, makes a purchase and then gets the remaining money in cash. Usually the checks are for $20 or $25 and the purchases $4 or $5.

The men and women who are engaged in this activity have the appearance of being fine middle-class persons. Unfortunately, their checks always bounce. They come back NO ACCOUNT.

Merchants are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce if in doubt about cashing checks of this size tendered by unknown persons employing this technique. Anthony Cavalli, secretary-manager of the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce said this week.

Sierra Madre to Greet Gov. Knight

Republicans Plan Breakfast; Governor to Speak in City Park

Saturday is the big day for local Republicans. On that red letter date of Oct. 30 they will be hosts to Governor and Mrs. Goodwin Knight at a breakfast to be served in the City Parkhouse from 7 a.m. until noon. The Governor is expected to make his address to the audience at 10 o'clock.

Library Closed During Moving

Moving days for the library are now going forward. Actual moving started yesterday, October 27 and will continue until one-third of the books to be placed in the temporary quarters at the Sierra Mesa school, 160 N. Canon, are in place. The remaining books will be placed in storage until the new building is completed.

Present plans call for the opening of temporary quarters Saturday, November 6, a spokesman for the library told the NEWS this week. The following hours were also officially announced: 2 to 5:30 p.m.; 7 to 9 p.m. week days; and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays.

The newer books and the older ones, most called for, and essential reference books in demand, will still be available. The space is of necessity limited and the service will be somewhat restricted but library board members are asking the public's forbearance.

One table, seating four, will be placed in the children's corner and another table, seating six, will be set up for adults. There will be a number of single chairs placed near the shelves.

Magazines, beginning with the issues of August 1, 1954, will be out for circulation but there will be no room for back files. No fines will be assessed during the dates the library is closed, October 27 to November 6, it was announced.

Hugh F. Colvin Winner In Float Theme Contest

"Good Things Come in Small Packages" has been selected as the theme for the Sierra Madre 1955 float to be entered in the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day, according to announcement by William Hawkins, who heads the Sierra Madre Float association. Winner of the contest is Hugh F. Colvin who will become possessor of two tickets to the Rose Bowl game as a reward for his ability to come through with a saying that will meet the limitations of finances and variety of flowers available to the Sierra Madre group.

Many Entries
More than 50 entries based on "Familiar Sayings" were received by Mac A. Cason, chairman of the Theme and Design committee of the association. Mr. Cason reports that the quality of the entries was excellent, but that many of them could not be used because they would require more elaborate design and floral treatment than is possible with a limited budget.

Sierra Madreans a few weeks ago indicated their general approval of entering a float in 1955 when they purchased more than 850 rosebuds on the two Rose Days sponsored by the newly formed Float association. This year's float will be local in every respect; it will be financed, designed, and built by Sierra Madreans.

Burning Hours To Be 4-7 p.m.

In response to a letter from the City of Los Angeles, the City Council Tuesday night voted to change temporarily the hours during which incinerator burning is permitted. Effective November 10, and continuing as an experiment for at least 90 days, trash should be burned between 4 and 7 P.M. Although the Council and Fire Chief James Heasley were not convinced that this change will have any effect in reducing smog, they desired to go on record as co-operating with suggestions from our metropolitan neighbor.

The Sierra Madre "Knight for Governor" committee, headed by Judge John C. Mead, will give escort to the Governor and his wife after they arrive in their state car at Michillinda Blvd. Other members of the committee are Mayor Charles Louk, M. Penn Phillips, Richard Thayer, with Mrs. William Hawkins representing the Sierra Madre Young Republicans.

Republicans here feel doubly honored by the fact that Mrs. Knight will accompany the Governor in the visit that is especially rare considering the Governor's crowded schedule. Since their marriage Aug. 2, she has been with her husband on much of his campaign tour and is described by the Governor as an enthusiast for learning affairs of State.

Reservations for the breakfast may be made by calling Judge Mead at CUster 5-1202. The menu will include bacon and eggs, and the price is one dollar.

Tickets are expected to be on sale at most downtown stores.

Demos to Hold Friday Night Town Meeting

Sierra Madre Democrats will wind up their election campaign with a town meeting at the City Hall Friday night at 8:15 with William Roskam, candidate for Congress, and Peter Hazell, candidate for Assemblyman, in attendance.

Both candidates will answer any questions anyone of any party wishes to ask about their records, their attitudes on anything from smog to world affairs. They will also outline the principles they will follow, if elected, a spokesman for the Democrats said this week. It is hoped by the Democrats that members of both major parties will be present to hear the two young candidates when they visit Sierra Madre.

"Anyone who is elected to legislative office," said Mr. Ros-

TO KEEP THE RECORD STRAIGHT: On September 1, 1953, Virginia and Edgar W. Jenkinson purchased the Sierra Madre NEWS from Clifford C. Ward, bringing to the paper 21 years of combined experience in the editing, managing and business-administrative fields. During the following year, the Jenkinsons served in every capacity on the NEWS from Managing Editors—which covers such items as establishment of policy, introduction of new features and improvement of makeup—to general flunky duties.

On September 1, 1954, Virginia Jenkinson, who has edited and managed two successful papers—one, a prizewinner—in addition to working as a reporter on two large dailies, became full editor of the NEWS.

Edgar Jenkinson functions as publisher of the paper, part-time reporter and general business administrator. Sewall Clark spends several hours a week with us doing feature work and stories on assignment. Marjorie C. Parker has provided us with two features recently and we hope that this fine writer will contribute more to our columns. Vera Lumbard has also promised us some features done in her very-readable, refreshing style.

The owners of the NEWS are politically independent. The female member of the team has a lifetime of Republican leanings, but, on occasion, has voted the Democratic ticket. The male member of the firm has voted Democratic more often than Republican. Both voted for Eisenhower.

We are proud to use the column, "What Do You Think?" in the NEWS, even though we do not always agree with the political opinions of its conductor, Lee Shippey, a man whose high-caliber writing can

Woman Lauds Work of Senator Joseph McCarthy

It does seem that we are a little more humane here in America than they are in the

Dear Editor:

Iron Curtain countries. We all have our purges when people in high places disagree. "Over There" they use machine guns or something equally as effective. But "Over Here" we have hand picked "fact finding" committees to do our bidding regarding censors and recommendations. Either style of purge seems to be effective in protecting Communists.

In the Valley here we have a group of folks banded together to protest against such outrageous situations as the purge of Senator Joseph McCarthy. It happens to everyone who makes a serious attempt to rid our country of subversives. Is this what is called "freedom of speech" when the moment someone speaks out against the pests, his mouth is closed by "censure" or otherwise. It happens every time.

If more folks want to join in raising our voices against this "censure affair," here are some phone numbers to call: Elliott 8-6083, Elliott 8-2148 and Elliott 8-3315.

Sincerely,
MRS. EDNA H. PAISLEY.

Reader Appreciative of Broader News Coverage

Dear Mrs. Jenkinson:

A recent issue of the Sierra Madre News seemed most interesting. I had to comment on it.

There was that article by Se-wall Clark about the Century Old Church Bell which rings out its glad tidings right here in our "little town," and another interesting piece by Mar-jorie C. Parker, telling of the experiences of the Paul Johnsons on a Jordan Mission.

And Lee Shippey in his column "What Do You Think?" comes up with some timely facts about voters apathy. How right he is about that Bonelli business. Why should people vote for continued corruption? Bonelli has surely shown us where he stands! We need more articles like that, Mr. Shippey. As the writer, Anonymous, has so sagely expounded, "We need to be reminded more than we need to be educated."

Of course, I have to concur with Mrs. E. M. Hauck's letter on her plea for Civic Pride. We tell on ourselves in the way we keep up our yard and the general appearance of our home.

And on the more recent news from our City Council, I presume some of our residents feel as I do, THERE IS A LIMIT TO TAXES, when do we reach it.

That reminds me; I flew back to Wisconsin a couple of years ago and while there made a visit to the corner drugstore. The price of an article seemed less than out here so I asked, does that include tax? The clerk smiled and said, "No tax."

On a second trip, I popped the same question and received the same answer. But on the third trip, the clerk gave me a searching glance, smiled again and said, "No tax. You must be from California."

I suppose some slick paper gag writer will steal that. But I have more I will SELL him.

Hazelle R. Paus
P.S. I almost forgot that bit of philosophy, "Shop Talk" by Ed Jenkinson.

Shop Talk

by

ED JENKINSON

CHARACTERS: Benny, the typesetting machine; Joey, the job press and Jumbo, the big newspaper press.

It is night-time, and the shop is deserted. But suddenly, out of the darkness—

Jumbo: Why have you been making so many mistakes lately, Benny? I'm helpless; all I can do is print the words you turn out. But what boners! While reporting a sedate and proper church party, you leave out the word "cup" and say, "Mr. So-and-So was crowned, given a loving, and thrown back into the pool." What next? What is the trouble? You in love, or something?

Benny: It's this smog. How do you expect a fellow to see, with his eyes dripping? The other day someone said to me, "What are you going to do about the smog problem?" As if I could do anything about it!

Joey: Well, somebody has to do something. People are leaving town. Especially retired folks, who can choose to live wherever they please. We are getting a national reputation, and a smelly one, at that. In the meantime, all the kids in the block have the sniffles and we run around with watery eyes as if we were watching an old-time melodrammer.

Benny: Smog has a lot to do with weather. Or, rather, weather has a lot to do with smog. And you know what Mark Twain said about weather. Similarly, all the words said about smog would keep me busy 24 hours a day for the rest of my life, but nobody does anything.

Joey: Did you see what Supervisor Legg said? He told 'em. He said that of course we can cure the smog, but we are not willing to pay the price. In short, we can stop all smoke-producing industry and turn ourselves back into a farm. Then all the employees would go where the factories go.

Benny: That solution is too drastic. We can never hope to dissolve the smog entirely.

Joey: But we can reduce it. The chemists and the engineers can explain it—and correct it. But the answer steps on too many people's toes. The toes of the rich and influential.

Benny: The most influential people in the world (in a democracy, anyway) are folks like you and me—yeah, and even Jumbo, you old lummox. And the millions of our neighbors. When they are sufficiently aroused, they will push the wall of power and wealth aside like a bulldozer.

Joey: They had better do it, then. By every means in their power—protest meetings, letters, petitions, votes. Let the boys who run the show know we mean business, or they won't be running the show any more.

Benny: You know, I have changed my mind. We can—and will—rid ourselves of smog, completely and forever. And we will paint the sky blue again.

Joey: How? Benny: By harnessing atomic energy to the wagon of peace instead of the hearse of war. I don't know for sure, but I doubt if the slow combustion of atomic power spills into the air the acid fumes that sting us now.

Joey: By the time they do that, your old bones will be ready for old Mother Earth.

Benny: You mean, my old bolts, nuts, wheels and gears. Not if we would devote as much inventiveness and speed to the ways of peace as we do to the needs of war. Then we could learn how to run our industries and cars by the force of the split atom in only a few short years.

Jumbo: Dreaming again! Joey: A pretty dream. It will eventually come true. But seeing you're in the dreamy mood, don't you think it's about time to start? Dawn and another work day will be here soon.

Jumbo: Yes, indeed.

Benny: For once we all agree. Goodnight, boys.

Vignettes

by

Virginia Pittinger

Almost more than any one thing, a knowledge of languages would promote understanding and break down barriers between peoples. This was apparent everywhere we traveled and made an effort to speak the language of the country. But nowhere was it more obvious than one day in Italy.

For miles there had been only a succession of squalid towns, each perched on the summit of a hill and surrounded by an ancient city wall. It was in one of these that we finally had to stop because we were almost out of gasoline. Luckily there was a gas pump. A man was filling his cigarette lighter from it as we drove up!

In an instant we were surrounded by 40 or 50 people—mostly men. No one spoke English—we knew no Italian. So, while Pitt went off to find the attendant to pump gas, we sat and stared at each other. It was definitely uncomfortable.

The faces that peered into our car weren't hostile, but they were unsmiling and grim. Then a man pushed his way through the crowd—a fair-haired young man with a bright, clear face, pink like a little boy's.

"Are you Americans?" he began. "I speak English."

"And very well, too," I said gratefully. "Yes, we are Americans."

"You are going to Rome?" "To Naples—to Rome—to Florence—to Milan—we do not want to miss any of your beautiful country."

The young man grinned and translated for the others. It was at this point that the faces about us began to change. A dark boy said something in soft Italian to our interpreter and then smiled shyly at me. He had an uncle in Fresno who raised grapes! That started an avalanche of Italian. There were cousins in Brooklyn, brothers in Detroit, aunts in Chicago, and all at once we were friends united by a variety of relatives thousands of miles away. And, because we were friends the questions became more personal.

"Are you very rich, Signora? Surely to have such a beautiful car one must be very rich!" Even in English that was a hard question to answer.

How does one explain American middle-class riches to people whose sole measure of wealth was millions—or nothing! I contented myself by saying simply, "Not very rich. But we have enough."

They could not understand my answer so they brushed it away.

"Do you mind if we look inside, Signora?"

"No," I said, suddenly ashamed of the many suitcases of clothing piled in the back seat. But the suitcases were not what caught their interest.

I heard the word bambino and saw the crowd shift so that the women could look inside and see Risty who was perched high on the bags. One woman put out her hand to touch his blond hair. Then she said something to the interpreter and there was pride in her voice.

"This lady," he translated, "has 10 children..." he hesitated. "You, Signora, this is your only son?"

I shook my head. "No, but I have only three children, an other son and a daughter."

The news buzzed around the crowd and I saw—especially among the women—expressions of sympathy. It was as though they had spelled it out for me. The car—the suitcases full of clothes—what were these compared to a fine family of many children? In those few seconds I saw my status change subtly from rich American to poor woman.

"Three is a good number," our friend said politely. "It is better than one."

"But not so good as 10," I answered.

They all smiled and nodded then, pleased that I had understood.

And so, because we could communicate, we left a village deep inside Italy more friendly than we had found it, and perhaps, with good reason, less envious of a kind of wealth that is beyond their understanding and their present reach.

CHAS. L. JONES, Pres. Western Gas & Oil Ass'n. in L.A. speech— "Since the end of World War II, almost two billion dollars has been invested in the petroleum industry just in California."

car because the exhaust gives off a little odor, it's going to be awfully hard on the little fellows and still harder on our vast used-car industry. Judging by radio commercials, there must be at least 100 used-car dealers in Los Angeles, each of whom guarantees to sell for less, give bigger trade-ins and better deals than anyone else in the world can. We little people can't make $10,000 contributions to political campaign funds, as some big oil men can, but used cars are big business too, and no one is going to buy a used car if it makes him liable to a fine every time he drives around the block.

Here in Sierra Madre, smog is no problem at all until it rolls in on us from other areas. Even so, I suspect it is a factor in our losing such valued citizens as the Carl Colts and the Harlan Wares. They can afford to move where they want to, but most of us can't, so it is up to our political leaders to take action which isn't too hard on us little fellows but gets results from the industries without which smog wouldn't be a problem anywhere. If Pittsburgh did it, so can we.

Boy! If only our politicians could be as effective for the good of our entire communities as our PTA is! Halloween used to be an evening we were scared of, but since the PTA's Halloween Carnival was inaugurated, our kids have acted, in ways, in the main, of which we can be proud. This year the Carnival is going to be bigger and better than ever. Games, contests, fun, entertainment for young and old, food, rummage sale, a real town fair from 4 to 8 p.m.—a frolic for the whole family.

Dr. Ralph Martin Announces Opening of New Health Center

The Foothill General Health Service, in the Hotel Arcade at 30 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., officially will be opened for public inspection Nov. 5 from 1 until 9 p.m. Hosts will be the chiropractors, Dr. Ralph J. Martin and his associate, Dr. C. D. Woodford.

DR. C. D. WOODFORD

Several thousands of dollars worth of new equipment will be displayed, including the newest of designs in hydraulic and electrically powered treating tables. Especially featured will be the Hylo table which is so effective for patients suffering low back injuries and the new F.C.C.-approved shortwave diathermy used in the treatment of respiratory, bronchial, and sinus cases.

Offering complete diagnostic facilities, the Foothill General Health Service also will be equipped with a Mattern 100-100 X-ray unit, giving Sierra Madre one of the finest X-ray services in the San Gabriel Valley. These X-ray facilities will be available to doctors throughout this area as well as to the patients of Dr. Martin and Dr. Woodford.

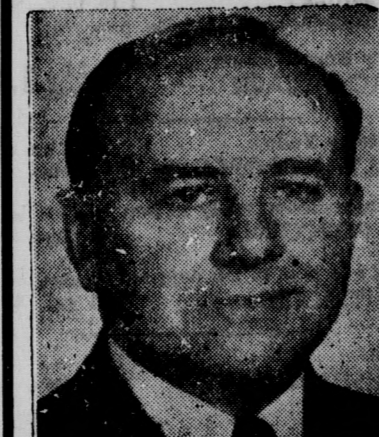

Dr. Martin, who was president of the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic for five years, has been well known here since opening his office in Sierra Madre in September, 1951. He was joined last September by Dr. Woodford who began his practice in Missouri in 1928 and served as a doctor in the Merchant Marine during World War II.

Refreshments will be served during the reception at the new offices.

LOST HIKERS

two weary men called for help and were answered by Pugi McDonald, 12, and Denny Humphries, 14, who then led the men along their own shortcut through the ravines at the same time that members of the Search and Rescue Crew arrived.

Four crew members had been out the night before, searching until 4 a.m. They were Robert Jenkins, Earl La Lone, George Black and Edward La Lone. The two La Lones returned to the task Sunday afternoon when police were notified of the marooned mountain hikers, and assisted the exhausted twosome with ropes.

Denny and Pugi had a big share in the praise given by all concerned and reportedly are future Search and Rescue Crew material.

library with as many descendants of its founders as possible, representatives of 13 families came—Andrews, Bixby, Blumer, Deutsch, Dickson, Hart, Hawks, Humphries, Norris, Ross, Twycross and Vannier.

Among the 13 sons and daughters of the first settlers who came for the picture were W. V. Vannier, president of the present Library Board and son of a long time trustee, and Mrs. Elsie Blumer Hart, daughter of the president of the Library Association all through the struggles which brought the library to life. Present, too, was Miss Daisy Hawks who is said to be a fountain of stories of the early days, since her family was among the first to come to Sierra Madre.

In front of the camera, too, were six grandchildren of the early pioneers; eleven great-grandchildren, and one great-great granddaughter, Baby Carol Ann Vogel. Harvey and Elizabeth Steinberger are grandchildren of Mrs. R. E. Ross, who gave, in memory of her husband, the land on which the building stands, plus a cash donation of $2,000. An additional $1,000 was given by others, totalling $3,000 for the entire cost of the structure. The Blumer family had the highest representation of all the 13 families, as five descendants of John G. Blumer appeared for the occasion.

the United Nations, the best means of assuring peace and what should be done to safeguard our forests and water supply and flood prevention, but to vote for me if they do approve the things for which I shall work. Too many political speeches are full of generalities and attacks on the opposition. We hope people will come and ask the specific questions to which they want specific answers."

Mr. Hazell holds that smog is definitely a state problem as well as a county and city problem.

"Whatever affects 5,000,000 Californians should be a state problem," he says. "I hope anyone interested in the smog will come and put me on the spot with specific questions."

Swimming Pool Ordinance Adopted Tues.

The swimming pool ordinance which has been under study for the past several weeks was finally adopted in its original form at Tuesday night's meeting of the City Council. The ordinance was passed, without modifications, making it mandatory that all swimming pools in Sierra Madre be surrounded by a protective wall or fence.

All pool owners must, by November 25, apply for a building permit, declaring their intention to construct a fence or wall at least four feet in height, equipped with self-closing and self-latching gates or doors. The enclosure may be built around the pool only, or it may include the entire property, at the owner's option.

Completion of action on the pool measure was taken despite the absence of Councilman Charles James, who at a previous meeting, had asked for postponement of the ordinance for further study. Councilman Lorne Pratt told the Council members that he believed sufficient time had been given to the study of other types of protection and that he thought it should be passed in its first form.

The ordinance does not require any protection in addition to the enclosure. Safety devices, such as pool covers or automatic alarms which were studied by the Council, are not a part of the ordinance.

Al Foxton Chevron Station Expansion Celebration Held

One of the best-known service station corners in Sierra Madre Al Foxton's Chevron Gas Station at 115 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., will be celebrated tomorrow and Saturday with special favors to all customers as a wind-up to 10 weeks of construction work in enlarging the station's area and facilities to twice their former capacities.

The Standard Oil station, begun in 1928 by Milton Steinberger, a former Mayor of Sierra Madre, has been Foxton's Chevron Service since the spring of 1947. Foxton, who went to work for Standard Oil in Canada immediately after his school days, has been with the company for 20 years.

As a result of Foxton's expanded service facilities, the station now has four pumps, a second "lube bay," all modern equipment for brake jobs, automatic air pumps and other new features. Parking space for customers has been more than doubled, with access and exit to and from the station made easier.

The special favors will include balloons and candy for children and small gifts for adults.

Foxton, whose only time away from Standard Oil was when he served in the South Pacific with the Army Signal Corps during World War II, has never closed his station except at Thanksgiving and Christmas. It operates from 6:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. six days a week and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays. Except in the very early and late hours, customers are served by at least two men; sometimes five.

Electrical repair and the sale of Atlas tires, batteries and accessories, also are on the Foxton expansion list. In the latter category, Foxton's activities last year placed first in a contest within the entire Los Angeles area.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

IT'S EASY TO MAKE ANGEL FOOD CAKE

by the General Electric Consumers Institute

If you want to be sure of perfect angel food cake every time—whether you use your own recipe or a cake mix, here are a few "must" rules for you to remember.

First of all, says the General Electric Consumers Institute, use an electric mixer with three beaters for beating egg white portion of cake. A triple-beater mixer incorporates more air into the mixture for a lighter cake.

Make sure the bowl you use for egg whites is spotlessly clean, with no trace of fat or shortening in it. Otherwise, the egg whites will not beat properly. Beaten egg whites should be stiff but not dry; they should have glossy peaks, and when a groove is cut through them, it should remain clear cut.

The flour-sugar mixture should be folded into egg white mixture with a wide utensil, such as a flat wire whip, a rubber spatula or a slotted spoon. Using as few strokes as possible, fold very carefully down through the mixture, across the bottom, up the side and over.

Angel food cake pans should never be greased in any way.

Turn the pan upside down as soon as the baking is finished, and allow room for circulation of air around the pan for at least an hour.

Here's the Consumers Institute recipe for Angel Food Cake. Keep the rules in mind when you use it.

Angel Food Cake

Tested in the G-E Consumers Institute

1 cup sifted cake flour
1 1/2 cups sifted sugar
1/4 cup whites (at room temperature)

Sift flour and 1/2 cup sugar together 3 times. Place egg whites in large mixer bowl and beat at a high speed (Speed 12) until all egg whites are foamy. Add cream of tartar, salt and flavoring. Beat at a high speed (Speed 12) until mixture stands in definite peaks but not dry. Add remaining sugar, a tablespoon at a time, while beating at a high speed (Speed 12) until mixture stands in definite peaks, 2-3 minutes. Sift flour-sugar mixture evenly over egg white mixture, about 1/4 cup at a time. With rubber scraper, fold in lightly but thoroughly after each addition. Pour into ungreased 10-inch tube pan. Smooth top of batter carefully in pan. Bake in oven 350°F for 40-45 minutes. Invert pan and cool cake in pan for 1 hour or until cold before removing. Makes one 10-inch tube cake.

Robert Dodge Saw Result of Hurricane

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dodge of 111 E. Orange Grove returned last week from a trip East which took them through 29 states, and 2 provinces of Canada. During their 12,000 mile tour, Mr. Dodge said that they were either in a section of the country that had been hit by hurricane or later were hit by
it. They saw the results of the hurricane Carol and were within 200 miles of Hazel.

"One can not possibly imagine the terrible havoc of the hurricane unless he has seen it for himself. The loss of lives and property devastation was appalling to us," he said.

Mr. Dodge is president of the Acme Manufacturing Company of Sierra Madre, manufacturers of fruit and vegetable juicers.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE PLANNING COMMISSION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Paul H. Ritter has filed with the Planning Commission of the City of Sierra Madre an application for a variance from the provisions of No. 391, as amended, for permission that the front yard requirements be waived to allow one corner of a proposed carport to be three feet from the property line instead of five feet, due to the topography of the property described as follows: Lots No. 54 and 55, of Tract No. 4450.

That pursuant to the provisions of Ordinance No. 391, of the City of Sierra Madre, as amended, Thursday, November 11, 1954, at the hour of 8:00 o'clock P.M. in the Council Chambers in the City Hall of Sierra Madre has been fixed as the time and place for holding public hearing upon said application.

The application for variance is based upon the grounds that there are special circumstances attached to said property which generally do not apply to other properties in the same district and vicinity, that the granting of a variance as aforesaid will not result in a material damage or prejudice to other property nor be detrimental to the public welfare or injurious to persons in the vicinity thereof.

Campfire Log

We-Kin-Ya Camp Fire's sixth graders took time out from their work toward Woodgatherers' rank to have a Halloween party Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the home of their leader, Mrs. Charles Abbe, 515 Manzanita. Following an outdoor barbecue supper, spooks and games were the order of the evening.

SINGING BLUE BIRDS held their first meeting at the new Sierra Mesa school. The members of the group attending third grade at the new school hosted the rest of the group attending Sierra Madre school on a tour of the new school and grounds. Refreshments of Halloween cupcakes and punch were served, and the girls elected their officers for the coming month: Dixie Leonard, treasurer, and Nancy Miller and Karen Cannon as clean-up committee. Story hour followed with the reading of Dipsy Donkey and his experiences at the Fair. The group will meet regularly in the patio of the Sierra Mesa school immediately after school.

BUSY LITTLE BLUE BIRDS were more than unusually busy and bustling last Thursday when, under the watchful eye of co-leaders, Mrs. Robert Frederick and Mrs. Walter Rode, they hosted all the third and fourth grader Blue Birds of Sierra Madre at a roller skating party in Fritchard Hall at the Congregational church. Mrs. John Atkinson was the hit of the day when she served as skating mistress, directing the games on skates and expertly teaching the girls some of the finer points of roller skating.

FLYING BLUE BIRDS got off to a flying start this year with an "ice cream social" for their first meeting, at which they planned for the year's activities. The new officers are Vicki Atkinson, president; Nora Justice, vice-president and Patty Buckner, secretary-treasurer.

Their first trip was a "secret" bicycle ride, starting from the Sierra Madre school and making four exciting stops along the way. The first was at the home of Mrs. Paul Witter at 169 N. Mt. Trail, who showed the girls her fine chinchillas and how to care for them. Then Mrs. Williams, who lives across the way at 174 Mt. Trail and raises canaries for sale, let the girls right into the big cage with all the birds and told them of their breeding habits. Next stop was to explore the new Sierra Mesa school; and last was the home of member Vicki Anderson, who proudly displayed her nine thoroughbred, week-old collie puppies. Afterwards a surprise birthday cake was served to honor Kathy Clardy on her birthday. Chaperons for this exciting day were co-leaders, Mrs. Harold Clardy and Mrs. Helmut Vorster, with Mrs. John Atkinson as hostess.

YMCA NOTES

Members of the Mojave Tribe, Sierra Madre Indian Guides, thoroughly enjoyed themselves at the first fall meeting of the group on Oct. 12 at the home of Malcolm Roane, 145 Oak Meadow Road.

After the regular business meeting the boys enjoyed games and refreshments in honor of Malcolm's birthday.

Membership is now open and it is expected that new fathers and sons will be joining to enlarge the group.

About 7 per cent of the world's population of 2.4 billion—approximately 165 million people—were engaged in manufacturing and handicrafts in 1950.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"I can't take your steak back - you've bent it!"

Girl Scout Notes

Mrs. Harry MacDonaugh, leader of Troop 23; Mrs. Charles, Skipper of the Mariner Girl Scouts, and Patty Hawkins, Mariner Scout, have just returned from the California Girl Scout conference at Asilomar, Pacific Grove, Calif., which they attended on Oct. 25, 26 and 27.

This was the conference of Region 12, which includes California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and Territory of Hawaii. The theme of the conference was "Room for One More," which is in keeping with National Council to make Girl Scouting available to every girl.

The trio of Sierra Madre delegates enjoyed a wonderful trip to Asilomar on the Southern Pacific Daylight, arriving just in time for the big banquet on Monday night. Tuesday was spent attending classes and meetings and seeing the sights. Wednesday offered skill classes and farewells as all the delegates prepared to return to their home states.

The Mariner Girl Scouts borrowed the Sea Scouts' 16-foot sailboat and with the help of Danny Peterson went sailing Sunday, Oct. 27, at Hansen Dam.

They met the Sea Scout Ship Resolute from Montrose and their Skipper Evans there with their 25-foot sailboat. The boys were very kind in sharing their boat and helping the girls to learn the parts of a sailboat.

M. Penn Phillips Fosters Rebirth of Desert Community

M. Penn Phillips, longtime California land developer and prominent Sierra Madre resident, is currently fostering the re-birth of Hesperia, a town growing from the desert at the junction of Victor and Apple Valleys.

Associated with Mr. Phillips in this project are Richard K. Thayer and Roy G. Sale, Thayer

Mrs. Alyce Herrold and Mrs. James Winslow are co-leaders of the Troop committee, which supports and helps the leaders and the Troop members whenever necessary, consists this year of Mrs. Claude H. and Sale Realty Company, Pasadena, and also local residents. Opening day unit land sales at Hesperia totaled $987,597, making it one of the largest first-day sales in California history. Over 1000 buyers were represented in the initial rush.

Hesperia is a planned community off the drawing boards of M. Phillips Enterprises experts. Ideally situated seven miles south of Victorville on the north slopes of the San Bernardino mountains, Hesperia boasts the perfect combination of smog and fog free air coupled with a moderate balance of temperature and rainfall.

Its future lies in an abundant water supply and the 22,000 acres of land suitable for expansion and development. Already plans are being discussed for the organization of a community newspaper, a resort ranch for boys and smog free proving grounds for San Gabriel Valley optical industries.

Meanwhile, the newly formed Hesperia Chamber of Commerce is busy, answering the ining volume of queries for information concerning this rapidly growing M. Penn Phillips development.

The purpose of the sale is to provide Sierra Madre's Sea Scout Ship 391, with needed funds. This is the ship which only a year ago was down to 16. Its performances at recent Sea Scout regional events is making the name of Sierra Madre widely known in surrounding territories.

In fact, the Sea Scout mothers and the wives of the sponsoring Sierra Madre Lions Club think so highly of the boys and what they have done and are trying to do that they personally are baking the cakes and cookies, etc., and donating them to the Bake Sale—9 a.m., October 30, Roess' Market.

'Bernadine' Playhouse Offering

By E. N. VOORHEES

These are hilarious evenings at the Pasadena Playhouse, thanks to the lively action of Mary Chase's satiric comedy, "Bernadine," in which seven teen-age high school youths try to make their urges to puppy-love perform like so-called "wolves" of Hollywood or comic book characters. Unable to find "dates" willing to submit themselves to such rough and tumble awkwardness, six of the youths swarm as close as possible to the trail of the seventh, Buddy Weidy ("Wormy"), whose reputation for conquest is awesome, though actually phony. Meanwhile, they all gather daily after school hours at a hangout called The Shamrock to talk about girls, listen to the jukebox, and build up in imagination an ideal community which they name "Sneaky Falls, Idaho," on the River of Dreams, where the motto is, Live on, dream on, and all girls say nothing except "Yes! Yes!" The ideal girl is known as "Bernadine." Meanwhile, they telephone desperately for real dates, but all the girls spurn them.

Wormy, going out on his own, escapes his dotting mother, eludes the other youths and his bookworm friend, Kinswood, who is the ally of Wormy's mother, and is soon stalking the trail of a mysterious stranger, whom he promptly identifies with his ideal Bernadine. His ensuing "adventure" is quite different from what he anticipated, though it makes a good chapter on adolescent education, highly amusing to the audience and mostly anguish to Wormy.

John Lupton plays the difficult Wormy with considerable conviction; Elizabeth Kerr is amusing and perfect as the dotting mother; Elaine Edwards, as Wormy's imagined "Bernadine," has the type of wistful beauty, manner and style that could double for Zsa-Zsa Gabor—though she will never need to. Tom Chapman, with a fine voice, diction and carriage, is an ingratiating "Beau," and Jamiel Farah is priceless in the subtle comedy part of Kinswood. The other boys stand out as amusing individuals: Billie Teachout and Sue Wagner are adequate, and others of the cast bring atmosphere and naturalness to the situations involved. The play will continue to Nov. 7.

Shasta Dam is the world's second largest concrete structure (Grand Coulee is first). To create vast Shasta Lake, this dam holds back three rivers. Sacramento, McCloud and Pit. It stores enough water to provide 9,000 gallons for every man, woman and child in the United States.

FOR CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS—PLANT HOLLIES NOW

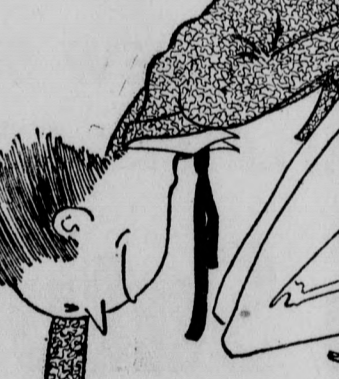

Excepting outdoor Christmas trees, no growing plants or shrubs express the Yuletide spirit as well as the various members of the Holly family. You can obtain container grown varieties of Holly from nurseries now, transplant them, and have berries and evergreen foliage suitable for wreaths and other decorations at Christmas time.

Throughout the world there are some 600 varieties of Holly. On the West Coast there are 20 good species and varieties available. In size evergreen Hollies range from six-inch dwarfs to 60-foot trees. Leaves may be sharp spined or smooth edged. Berries come in red, orange, yellow and black. Hollies are generally long living, slow growing and will tolerate a multitude of soil types. However, they cannot stand poor drainage or extreme cold.

English Holly is traditionally a Christmas Holly—with brilliant red berries, glossy green foliage and sharp spiny leaves. There are many horticultural forms ranging from four to 40 feet at maturity. The Jan Van Tol or Dutch Holly, with spineless or almost spineless leaves, is one of these forms; it produces bright red holiday berries.

Another member of the Holly family is the Chinese Holly, which resembles its English cousin but is lower growing. Its leaves have less spines and it fruits with huge scarlet berries at Christmas time. Being self-fertile it will set berries without pollen from other plants.

Burford Holly is a good foundation or tub plant with soft, sprawling lines and scarlet berries. It grows to 10 feet. A true dwarf Holly is the Heller Holly—compact and round—growing to a one-foot height and two-foot spread. In May and June it produces small white flowers and at Christmas black berries.

Why Reach or Run for the Telephone?

It would be wonderful to have a telephone in every room of the home, wouldn't it? It would certainly save reaching and running and reduce the irritations that arise when a caller hangs up before you get to the phone. Now, an extension telephone in every room is not vital—but one or two, perhaps in the bedroom and kitchen, would be a great convenience. And extensions are inexpensive. Why not contact our business office for full information about them?

YOUR HEALTH

BEFORE YOU TURN ON THE HEAT

ROY O. GILBERT, M.D.
Los Angeles County Health Officer

Each year in the basement of our County Health Department building at 241 N. Figueroa street, we hold an informal sort of exhibit. The public is not invited to this affair, and most of the employees of the building walk by the exhibit without knowing that it is there.

There are no placards to attract attention to the display and no copy to explain its message. There are several good titles which could be used such as "Murderers' Row," or for those who prefer brevity, simply the word, "Death."

This exhibit consists of a pile of junk in the form of unvented space heaters picked up in various parts of the county. Although not displayed in a very attractive manner, the exhibit is nevertheless exclusive in that no heater is displayed here unless it has been responsible for the deaths of one or more persons.

Every year a number of people in Los Angeles County are killed accidentally by breathing carbon monoxide produced by incomplete combustion of carbon-containing materials such as gas, coal, gasoline or wood. A gas heater, if it is vented to the outside of the house, could produce just as much of this poison as an unvented heater, without causing illness or death because such poisonous gas would be carried to the open air through a pipe or vent. If a heater does not have a vent, it should be replaced with one that does. If such a replacement is not made, the least that can be done is to make sure that a window is open whenever an unvented heater is operating.

Every year, immediately preceding the season when people are likely to start turning on the heat the above information is disseminated to the public, and yet each winter season the coroner compiles death statistics which include a brief note as follows: "Death caused by operating gas heater in closed room."

This year, in addition to giving out information concerning the dangers of unvented heaters, this Department would like to emphasize that the operation of such heaters is contrary to law and further, that the County Counsel last month reaffirmed the opinion that a landlord can be made criminally responsible if one of his tenants meets death through the operation of an unvented heater.

Although the owners of single dwellings are not mentioned in this particular opinion, it might be well to point out that it would afford small comfort to the head of a household to determine his own criminal responsibility in case a member of his household died from the operation of such antiquated heating equipment.

For those who will insist on using unvented heaters, they should know that the first symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are usually headache, dizziness and shortness of breath on exertion. When such symptoms are noticed in circumstances which point to the possibility of a carbon monoxide hazard, fresh air should be made available immediately. Unvented heaters should be checked periodically by a competent heating service agency or by a local gas company.

The average adult needs almost one gram of calcium per day to maintain proper calcium balance in his body. Two and one-half glasses of milk, in addition to calcium supplied from other food, will supply this need, says the National Dairy Council.

Is The Universe Friendly To Man? Asks Rev. H. Leach

Preaching in the Congregational Church on the subject "Does God Care?" and using as his text "The Eternal God is our refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms," the Rev. Mr. Leach said that in ancient times when this text was written men believed that only the Hebrew nation was under the care and control of God.

Modern man, no longer believes that there are those who are outside the concern of God. Nevertheless, there are some who still believe that only the "elect" are those whom God loves. We would rather believe, however, that no man, whatever his race or color, is beyond God's interest and loving care. If there are those who seem to be forgotten of God, it is because they have of their own will rejected the love of God that reaches out and would embrace every human being.

Perhaps it is not easy for all to believe, in the light of suffering, disaster and such things, that God cares for us mortals. These things are not easy to account for but man's stupidity is responsible for some of it. Then, again, there is such a thing as evil in men's hearts which bring misery to the world. Is God responsible for man's stupidity or evil designs? Christians do not believe so.

Can you think of a world without suffering, disappointment, or evil to overcome? In such a world there would be no need for such things as sympathy, comfort or courage. It is only when there is darkness that we appreciate the light. Only through suffering the loving care and sympathy of friends become real to us. The Bible says "In all our afflictions he was afflicted." We are not alone when we suffer. God suffers with us. The symbol of our Faith is a Cross upon which God gave his own son to suffer. No one understands suffering better than God.

In spite of it all there is much of beauty and health in the world. It is not all grief. Think of the things that are friendly to us. The healing power of nature. Spring, summer and harvest. Is the universe friendly? Yes, because underneath are the Everlasting Arms.

It's Prosperity Insurance!

Proposition 5 renews a 40-year old law exempting home-owned ships from personal property tax levies that can't be assessed against foreign and out-of-State ships.

California ships could not compete, tax-wise, without this protection, and in many cases would be forced to seek registry in other ports, spending there the many millions of dollars for repairs and provisioning now spent in California.

A healthy shipping industry is vital to California's prosperity. Shipping furnished jobs for 20,000 Californians last year with a payroll of more than 100 million dollars! Every county in every section of the State benefits in terms of wider markets and better prices for products, more business volume, more stability, more job protection.

Everybody favors Proposition 5: the Democratic Party and the Republican Party, the Farm Bureau Federation, the State Federation of Labor, the State Chamber of Commerce, the California Federation of Women's Clubs and scores of other civic, labor, business, women's and patriotic organizations.

News of the Churches

All Day Missionary Society To Meet at Bethany Church

The regular monthly meeting of the Bethany Missionary Society will be held at the church all day Tuesday, November 2, with the Rev. Mr. Gordon J. Houser as the 11 o'clock speaker. Rev. Houser represents the Latin-American Mission in their West Coast office. He and his wife have been missionaries both on Costa Rica and in Colombia for 15 years and their missionary message will be of great interest.

The afternoon session will start at 1:15 with Miss Joy Ridderhof being presented at 1:30. Miss Ridderhof is founder and director of Gospel Recordings, Inc., which is a non-profit organization. She has just returned from a 27-month trip around the earth and will rest until January and will then go to Africa.

Through her vision and genius the effectiveness of missionaries in the field has been multiplied many times. A field worker, who could formerly contact 500 can today reach 25,000. A missionary, who could once master three or four languages and preach in them, can today deliver the word in up to 1,000 tongues through the use of Gospel Recordings. She has worked with virtually all Protestant faiths and her accomplishments have girdled the world.

Latest figures show that more than 10,000 inexpensive phonographs and 820,000 records have been dispatched since the corporation was founded in 1939. During the first 10 years, 170,000 records went out but last year, alone, an equal number was sent and this year the number will be over 200,000.

Miss Ridderhof has worked in Australia, India, Assam, Pakistan, Kashmir, Burma and British New Guinea. She feels that New Guinea is probably one of the most difficult mission posts on earth but is confident that pacification of

'Everlasting Punishment,' Science Sermon Subject

The necessity of overcoming sin in order to escape its penalties is a leading point to be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The lesson-sermon on "Everlasting Punishment" includes a parable of the prodigal son from Luke's Gospel. After wasting his substance with riotous living, in suffering and humility he returned to serve in his father's house. "But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him," and he said, "Let us eat, and be merry: For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found." (Luke 15:13-20, 23, 24.)

Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "When mortals once admit that evil confers no pleasure, they turn from it." "This conviction, that there is no real pleasure in sin, is one of the most important points in the theology of Christian Science." (pp. 39, 404.)

The Golden Text is from Psalms (103:7): "Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption."

the island and conversion of its people are possible and that native Christians can play a large role in this work.

All present at the meetings are cordially invited to stay for a covered dish luncheon at noon. A nursery is provided for babies and small children all day.

Rev. Robert H. Harper
The Dignity of Work.
Lesson for October 31: Proverbs 6: 6-11; 18: 9; 24: 30-34.
Golden Text: Proverbs 22: 29.

It is ordained of God and the natural order of things that men should work. And industry and thrift are commended throughout the Bible. The words of the lesson are directed against laziness and idleness.

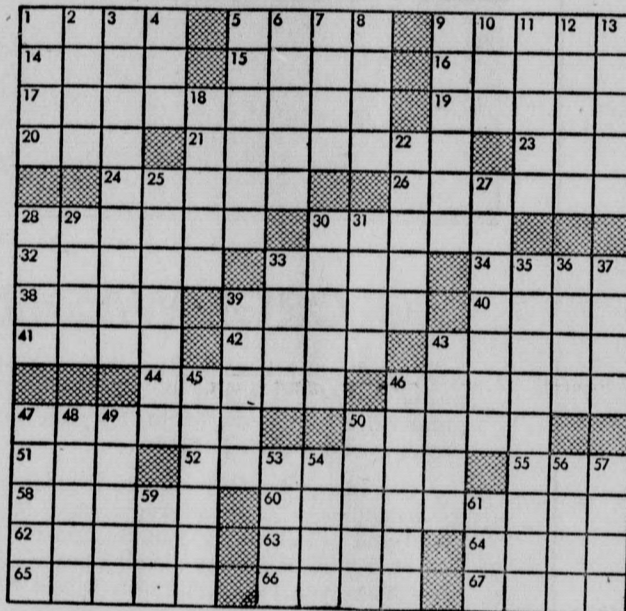

The sluggard is admonished to go to the ant to learn of the industry that he himself should practice. All of us have observed how ceaselessly and swiftly ants go about their business, busily engaged in their little concerns. They who have studied ants tell us marvelous things about their activities in carrying out their designs.

But the wise man, as he went by the field of the sluggard and the vineyard of the man void of understanding, found a human example exactly opposite to that of the ants. The field was grown over with thorns and nettles and the wall was broken down. So a little more folding of the hands in sleep, a little more slumber, and poverty will come as a thief to bring a man to want.

So may we learn the value and the dignity of labor and give ourselves diligently to our own task, whatever it be. The complex machinery of modern life, rather than lull us to sleep with its manifold provisions for our daily needs, should bring us each to take advantage of the multiplied tool of a million of our fellows in doing our own work nobly and well.

Call in your news to us.

'Bernadine' Playhouse Offering

By E. N. VOORHEES

These are hilarious evenings at the Pasadena Playhouse, thanks to the lively action of Mary Chase's satiric comedy, "Bernadine," in which seven teen-age high school youths try to make their urges to puppy-love perform like so-called "wolves" of Hollywood or comic book characters. Unable to find "dates" willing to submit themselves to such rough and tumble awkwardness, six of the youths swarm as close as possible to the trail of the seventh, Buddy Weedy ("Wormy"), whose reputation for conquest is awesome, though actually phony. Meanwhile, they all gather daily after school hours at a hangout called The Shamrock to talk about girls, listen to the jukebox, and build up in imagination an ideal community which they name "SNeaky Falls, Idaho," on the River of Dreams, where the motto is, Live on, dream on, and all girls say nothing except "Yes! Yes!" The ideal girl is known as "Bernadine." Meanwhile, they telephone desperately for real dates, but all the girls spurn them.

Wormy, going out on his own, escapes his dotting mother, eludes the other youths and his bookworm friend, Kinswood, who is the ally of Wormy's mother, and is soon stalking the trail of a mysterious stranger, whom he promptly identifies with his ideal Bernadine. His ensuing "adventure" is quite different from what he anticipated, though it makes a good chapter on adolescent education, highly amusing to the audience and mostly anguish to Wormy.

John Lupton plays the difficult Wormy with considerable conviction; Elizabeth Kerr is amusing and perfect as the dotting mother; Elaine Edwards, as Wormy's imagined "Bernadine," has the type of wistful beauty, manner and style that could double for Zsa-Zsa Gabor—though she will never need to. Tom Chapman, with a fine voice, diction and carriage, is an ingratiating "Beau," and Jamel Farah is priceless in the subtle comedy part of Kinswood. The other boys stand out as amusing individuals; Billie Teachout and Sue Wagoner are adequate, and others of the cast bring atmosphere and naturalness to the situations involved. The play will continue to Nov. 7.

Shasta Dam is the world's second largest concrete structure (Grand Coulee is first). To create vast Shasta Lake, this dam holds back three rivers, Sacramento, McCloud and Pit. It stores enough water to provide 9,000 gallons for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Excepting outdoor Christmas trees, no growing plants or shrubs express the Yuletide spirit as well as the various members of the Holly family. You can obtain container grown varieties of Holly from nurseries now, transplant them, and have berries and evergreen foliage suitable for wreaths and other decorations at Christmas time.

Throughout the world there are some 600 varieties of Holly. On the West Coast there are 20 good species and varieties available. In size evergreen Hollies range from six-inch dwarfs to 60-foot trees. Leaves may be sharp spined or smooth edged. Berries come in red, orange, yellow and black. Hollies are generally long living, slow growing and will tolerate a multitude of soil types. However, they cannot stand poor drainage or extreme cold.

English Holly is traditionally a Christmas Holly—with brilliant red berries, glossy green foliage and sharp spiny leaves. There are many horticultural forms ranging from four to 40 feet at maturity. The Jan Van Tol or Dutch Holly, with spineless or almost spineless leaves, is one of these forms; it produces bright red holiday berries.

Another member of the Holly family is the Chinese Holly, which resembles its English cousin but is lower growing. Its leaves have less spines and it fruits with huge scarlet berries at Christmas time. Being self-fertile it will set berries without pollen from other plants.

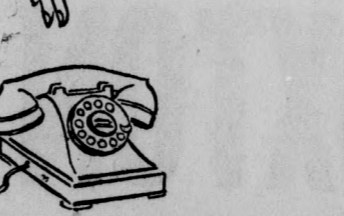

Burford Holly is a good foundation or tub plant with soft, sprawling lines and scarlet berries. It grows to 10 feet. A true dwarf Holly is the Heller Holly—compact and round—growing to a one-foot height and two-foot spread. In May and June it produces small white flowers and at Christmas black berries.

Of special interest to gardeners in this state is the California Holly or Christmas Berry or Toyon as it is variously known. This bushy shrub or small tree grows from 6-25 feet with thick dark green bristly leaves. It has white flowers in early summer and bright red berries around the holiday season. Drought tolerant, it is excellent for erosion control on hillsides.

In postscript to these suggestions for Hollies to add to your Christmas decoration enjoyment, the California Association of Nurserymen reminds gardeners that the Hollyleaf Sweetpire, an evergreen growing to 10 feet and hardy to 15 degrees, resembles English Holly and will substitute admirably where English Holly cannot be grown successfully. The Hollyleaf has dark, spiny-toothed leaves and greenish-white flowers and produces its best foliage in partial shade.

Hollies prefer rich, slightly acid loam but generally will grow in any soil as long as it's well drained. They grow in sun or shade, too, but the growth is more compact and berries more numerous in the sun.

Twice a year—early spring and early fall—Hollies should be sprayed for mealybug, scale and ants. Your nurseryman can recommend the most effective spray.

YOUR HEALTH

BEFORE YOU TURN ON THE HEAT

ROY O. GILBERT, M.D.
Los Angeles County Health Officer

Each year in the basement of our County Health Department building at 241 N. Figueroa street, we hold an informal sort of exhibit. The public is not invited to this affair, and most of the employees of the building walk by the exhibit without knowing that it is there.

There are no placards to attract attention to the display and no copy to explain its message. There are several good titles which could be used such as "Murderers' Row," or for those who prefer brevity, simply the word, "Death."

This exhibit consists of a pile of junk in the form of unvented space heaters picked up in various parts of the county. Although not displayed in a very attractive manner, the exhibit is nevertheless exclusive in that no heater is displayed here unless it has been responsible for the deaths of one or more persons.

Every year a number of people in Los Angeles County are killed accidentally by breathing carbon monoxide produced by incomplete combustion of carbon-containing materials such as gas, coal, gasoline or wood. A gas heater, if it is vented to the outside of the house, could produce just as much of this poison as an unvented heater, without causing illness or death because such poisonous gas would be carried to the open air through a pipe or vent. If a heater does not have a vent, it should be replaced with one that does. If such a replacement is not made, the least that can be done is to make sure that a window is open whenever an unvented heater is operating.

Every year, immediately preceding the season when people are likely to start turning on the heat the above information is disseminated to the public, and yet each winter season the coroner compiles death statistics which include a brief note as follows: "Death caused by operating gas heater in closed room."

This year, in addition to giving out information concerning the dangers of unvented heaters, this Department would like to emphasize that the operation of such heaters is contrary to law and further, that the County Counsel last month reaffirmed the opinion that a landlord can be made criminally responsible if one of his tenants meets death through the operation of an unvented heater.

Although the owners of single dwellings are not mentioned in this particular opinion, it might be well to point out that it would afford small comfort to the head of a household to determine his own criminal responsibility in case a member of his household died from the operation of such antiquated heating equipment.

For those who will insist on using unvented heaters, they should know that the first symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are usually headache, dizziness and shortness of breath on exertion. When such symptoms are noticed in circumstances which point to the possibility of a carbon monoxide hazard, fresh air should be made available immediately. Unvented heaters should be checked periodically by a competent heating service agency or by a local gas company.

The average adult needs almost one gram of calcium per day to maintain proper calcium balance in his body. Two and one-half glasses of milk, in addition to calcium supplied from other food, will supply this need, says the National Dairy Council.

Is The Universe Friendly To Man? Asks Rev. H. Leach

Preaching in the Congregational Church on the subject "Does God Care?" and using as his text "The Eternal God is our refuge and underneath are the Everlasting Arms," the Rev. Mr. Leach said that in ancient times when this text was written men believed that only the Hebrew nation was under the care and control of God.

Modern man, no longer believes that there are those who are outside the concern of God. Nevertheless, there are some who still believe that only the "elect" are those whom God loves. We would rather believe, however, that no man, whatever his race, or color, is beyond God's interest and loving care. If there are those who seemingly are forgotten of God, it is because they have of their own will rejected the love of God that reaches out and would embrace every human being.

Perhaps it is not easy for all to believe, in the light of suffering, disaster and such things, that God cares for mortals. These things are not easy to account for but man's stupidity is responsible for some of it. Then, again, there is such a thing as evil in men's hearts which bring misery to the world. Is God responsible for man's stupidity or evil designs? Christians do not believe so.

Can you think of a world without suffering, disappointment, or evil to overcome? In such a world there would be no need for such things as sympathy, comfort or courage. It is only when there is darkness that we appreciate the light. Only through suffering the loving care and sympathy of friends become real to us. The Bible says "In all our afflictions he was afflicted." We are not alone when we suffer. God suffers with us. The symbol of our Faith is a Cross upon which God gave his own son to suffer. No one understands suffering better than God.

In spite of it all there is much of beauty and health in the world. It is not all grief. Think of the things that are friendly to us. The healing power of nature. Spring, summer and harvest. Is the universe friendly? Yes, because underneath are the Everlasting Arms.

Many Activities Planned at Church of Our Redeemer

Reformation Day will be observed at the Church of Our Redeemer, Methodist, this Sunday at both the 9:30 a.m. and the 11 a.m. worship services. The Rev. All concerned Protestants are invited to attend the church of their choice on Sunday and to witness by their presence to the faith that is theirs. As the anthem for the day, the choir will sing "Hope of the World" by Georgia Harkness. This hymn was written especially for the World Council of Churches meeting at Evanston.

It's Prosperity Insurance!

Proposition 5 renews a 40-year old law exempting home-owned ships from personal property tax levies that can't be assessed against foreign and out-of-State ships.

California ships could not compete, tax-wise, without this protection, and in many cases would be forced to seek registry in other ports, spending there the many millions of dollars for repairs and provisioning now spent in California.

A healthy shipping industry is vital to California's prosperity. Shipping furnished jobs for 20,000 Californians last year with a payroll of more than 100 million dollars! Every county in every section of the State benefits in terms of wider markets and better prices for products, more business volume, more stability, more job protection.

Everybody favors Proposition 5: the Democratic Party and the Republican Party, the Farm Bureau Federation, the State Federation of Labor, the State Chamber of Commerce, the California Federation of Women's Clubs and scores of other civic, labor, business, women's and patriotic organizations.

News of the Churches

All Day Missionary Society To Meet at Bethany Church

The regular monthly meeting of the Bethany Missionary Society will be held at the church all day Tuesday, November 2, with the Rev. Mr. Gordon J. Houser as the 11 o'clock speaker. Rev. Houser represents the Latin-American Mission in their West Coast office. He and his wife have been missionaries both on Costa Rica and in Columbia for 15 years and their missionary message will be of great interest.

The afternoon session will start at 1:15 with Miss Joy Ridderhof being presented at 1:30. Miss Ridderhof is founder and director of Gospel Recordings, Inc., which is a non-profit organization. She has just returned from a 27-month trip around the earth and will rest until January and will then go to Africa.

Through her vision and genius the effectiveness of missionaries in the field has been multiplied many times. A field worker, who could formerly contact 500 can today reach 25,000. A missionary, who could once master three or four languages and preach in them, can today deliver the word in up to 1,000 tongues through the use of Gospel Recordings. She has worked with virtually all Protestant faiths and her accomplishments have girded the world.

Latest figures show that more than 10,000 inexpensive phonographs and 820,000 records have been dispatched since the corporation was founded in 1939. During the first 10 years, 170,000 records went out but last year, alone, an equal number was sent and this year the number will be over 200,000.

Miss Ridderhof has worked in Australia, India, Assam, Pakistan, Cashmir, Burma and British New Guinea. She feels that New Guinea is probably one of the most difficult mission posts on earth but is confident that pacification of

'Everlasting Punishment,' Science Sermon Subject

The necessity of overcoming sin in order to escape its penalties is a leading point to be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The lesson-sermon on "Everlasting Punishment" includes a parable of the prodigal son from Luke's Gospel. After wasting his substance with riotous living, in suffering and humility he returned to serve in his father's house. "But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him." And he said, "Let us eat, and be merry: For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found." (Luke 15:13,20,23,24).

Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "When mortals once admit that evil confers no pleasure, they turn from it." "This conviction, that there is no real pleasure in sin, is one of the most important points in the theology of Christian Science." (pp. 39, 40).

The Golden Text is from Psalms (103:7): "Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption."

the island and conversion of its people are possible and that native Christians can play a large role in this work.

All present at the meetings are cordially invited to stay for a covered dish luncheon at noon. A nursery is provided for babies and small children all day.

Rev. Robert H. Harper
The Dignity of Work
Lesson for October 31: Proverbs 6: 6-11; 18: 9; 24: 30-34.
Golden Text: Proverbs 22: 29.

It is ordained of God and the natural order of things that men should work. And industry and thrift are commended throughout the Bible. The words of the lesson are directed against laziness and idleness.

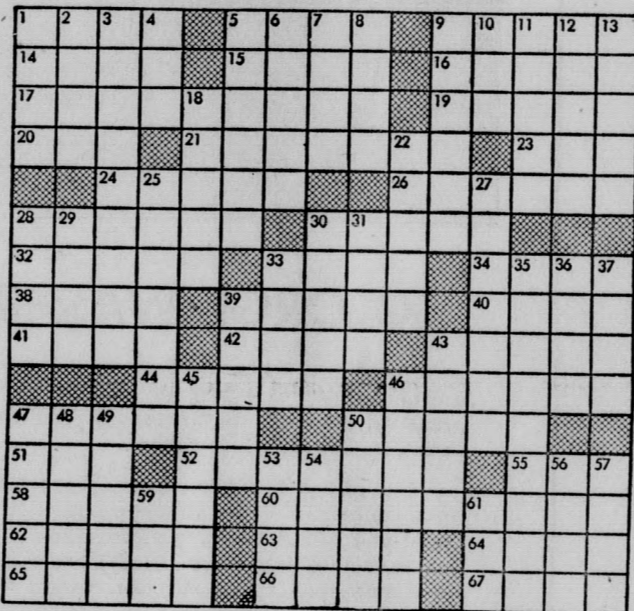

The sluggard is admonished to go to the ant to learn of the industry that he himself should practice. All of us have observed how ceaselessly and swiftly ants go about their business, busily engaged in their little concerns. They who have studied ants tell us marvelous things about their activities in carrying out their designs.

But the wise man, as he went by the field of the sluggard and the vineyard of the man void of understanding, found a human example exactly opposite to that of the ants. The field was grown over with thorns and nettles and the wall was broken down. So a little more sloth, a little more slumber, and poverty will come as a thief to bring a man to want.

So may we learn the value and the dignity of labor and give ourselves diligently to our own task, whatever it be. The complex machinery of modern life, rather than call us to sleep with its manifold provisions for our daily needs, should bring us each to take advantage of the multiplied toil of a million of our fellows in doing our own work nobly and well.

Call in your news to us.

GEORGE WASHINGTON PRAYED

Historical shrines, as the one pictured here, pertaining to George Washington and also the accounts of his deeds while a general in the American Army are of great value as inspiration to the youth of this Nation, and his acts serve as fine examples for adults to follow.

One of the facts that bears repeating again and again is that he prayed. A great soldier, a great statesman and a wealthy man in his own right, yet he could and did sincerely humble himself in prayer. There must be something to prayer, something more than mere wishful thinking, else a great man and a busy man such as Washington would have deemed the time wasted.

If prayer was a valuable aid to Washington it can be of help to you. If you have not learned how to take advantage of this source of power, try the Church. The church of your choice can serve you in pointing the way to getting the most out of prayer. It has served past generations in this capacity and can serve you.

With the hope that it will, in some measure, foster and help sustain that which is good in family and community life, this feature is sponsored by the business firms and organizations whose names appear in this space.

PTA Panel Draws Record Crowd

A record crowd attended the PTA meeting on Thursday, Oct. 21, to hear a panel discussion on the "Evaluation of Our Schools." Interest in the subject was evidenced by the variety and number of questions put to the members of the panel near the close of the meeting.

The animated discussion was even carried over into the social portion of the evening, while refreshments were served at a table beautifully set in the spirit of Halloween.

According to Mrs. Gifford Eastwood, president, the enthusiasm with which this panel was received augurs well for another along the same lines to be given in March. The subject at that time will be, "Smoothing the Transition From Elementary School to Junior High."

Family Service Benefits From Local Community Chest Funds

The Family Service Board of Sierra Madre, an organization that benefits through the local Community Chest, offers a unique arrangement for any Sierra Madren who finds himself in need of a professional counseling service without sufficient funds to pay for it. It is unique to the extent that the local board, while providing the way, still has no personal contact with anyone using the service.

There are two reasons for this. First, the board here is merely a source of contact through which the client may go to doctors, psychiatrists, ministers and other professional men reached through Family Service of Pasadena. Second, the problems of the client, possibly relating to parenthood, married life, adjustment to work or to relatives, are often of an intimate nature so that absolute privacy and confidence are desired.

Any Sierra Madren who feels that he could use this counseling service may call Family Service of Pasadena, SYcamore 2-5141, and ask for an appointment for further information. The Family Service Board in Sierra Madre, though providing certain funds, will not even know the names of local clients.

Members of the local board meet at intervals to review the budget and to evaluate the use of the agency made by local clients. Officers are elected at annual meetings attended by members who pay a small fee as a token of their interest in the program.

Present board members are Douglas Lance, president; Mrs. E. W. Carver, Rev. Raynor Smith, Dr. Robert Hinshaw, Mrs. P. R. Woodworth, Mrs. George Osborn, Charles Skutt, Mrs. Edgar W. Jenkinson and Mrs. C. R. Gildart.

1. Once again it is daffodil planting time! Daffodils are a "topnotch" bulb investment. First, there is no substitute for their early spring cheer. Secondly, it is practically impossible to fail with them provided you start with first quality bulbs. And, best of all, they readily multiply and increase from year to year.
2. This is a most favorable time to seed a lawn.

daffodils in pots which can be sunk in the flower border. The pots can be removed after flowering and the bulbs allowed to die naturally in a less conspicuous part of the garden.

4. Many bedding plants can be planted now which will provide winter color.

5. All container-grown ornamental shrubbery can be transplanted now.

Who's who in the Junior Rose Bowl race.

With five weeks of play under their belts only five California junior college grid machines — Bakersfield, Antelope Valley, El Camino, San Bernardino and West Contra Costa — can boast of perfect 1954 records, leaving the gates of the Junior Rose Bowl game, Dec. 11, wide open.

Heading the list of the unbeaten is little Antelope Valley with five victories and 139 points scored against only 38 for the opposition.

Bakersfield's rampaging Renegades, hoping for an encore to the Junior Rose Bowl, extended their winning streak to 19 straight when they blasted favored Pasadena, 27-0, a few weeks ago and thereby bringing to an end a record of 17 consecutive triumphs by the Lancers.

El Camino looks as good as they did last year, having an unbeaten, untied, unscored-upon record.

San Bernardino had a three-win-no-loss record going into last Friday's game with Orange Coast.

Right now we're going to stick out our neck and predict the California team that will play in the Little Bowl classic. It'll be either Bakersfield, Antelope Valley or El Camino.

LAW IN ACTION

CHECKS AND BANK ACCOUNTS

Should you make a check payable to "cash," to "bearer," or to a named person? Make it payable to a named person. Otherwise if lost or stolen it can be cashed by anyone.

How about a check made to one or more payees? Can any one of them cash the check? That depends. Make it payable to John Doe, Richard Roe, and Mary Coe, and ordinarily all three must indorse it for the bank to cash it. But make it payable to John Doe or Mary Coe, and either one may cash it by a single indorsement.

Each depositor and his bank have a contract as to withdrawals by check and other matters. The card you sign when you open your account is a vital part of that contract. Who has a right to sign checks or make withdrawals? Is your account a one-name account or a joint tenancy account? It may be advisable to review the files on these matters. Things may have changed since you first opened the account or gave deputy powers.

When the deposit is a "demand" deposit (or a commercial account) you can withdraw your money on checks to write and deliver to others. In a "time deposit," the bank pays a certain interest rate in consideration of your keeping the money on deposit until an agreed date. You set up a "savings account" at interest for no set time. You can make withdrawals in accord with prescribed rules.

When a bank account is in two names, "with right of survivorship," what happens if one of the depositors dies? Upon obtaining the necessary inheritance tax release, the balance is payable to the survivor under the contract. As a rule it is so disposed of, entirely apart from the decedent's will. But in some cases, where the parties have agreed otherwise, the courts have ruled that despite the signature card and form of account, the balance does not belong outright to the surviving depositor.

REPORTS THE WASHINGTON NEWS

REGULATED GAS PIPELINES
By Jerome K. Kuykendall
Chairman, Federal Power Commission

As "guest columnist" for Edgar W. Hiestand, I am pleased to tell you about the progress being made in the transmission of natural gas to all parts of our country.

If all the natural gas pipeline authorized for construction by the Federal Power Commission in the last 12 years were laid end to end, it would create a steel belt encircling the earth more than twice at the equator. This mythical pipeline system could transport nearly 21 billion cubic feet of natural gas per day.

Actually, the more than 55,000 miles of pipeline approved by the FPC have been put to a more practical use.

Criss-crossing the United States in an efficient pattern, these great long lines carry natural gas to markets stretching all the way from the great Southwest producing areas eastward to the mid-Atlantic coast and New England through the deep South to the Caroline and Georgia shores; north through the Midwest to the heart of Minnesota; and west to the coast of California. And just recently the FPC authorized a new $160,000,000 pipeline system which will pump this fuel from the Southwest into the Pacific Northwest—the nation's one remaining large area still without natural gas service.

Interstate regulation of the pipeline industry became necessary in the late 1930's as technical advances made possible the transmission of huge volumes of natural gas over great distances, making the consuming areas dependant on sources of supply in faraway producing fields. So Congress stepped in and passed the Natural Gas Act in 1938, delegating responsibility for administering the new law to the Federal Power Commission.

Since 1938, the natural gas industry has continued to grow at a tremendous rate. Although what lies ahead isn't easy to predict, I am sure that the end of this phenomenal growth is not yet in sight.

After gas reaches the Pacific Northwest, the pioneering era of the great new long lines will be nearing an end. But the interstate natural gas pipeline industry most certainly will continue to grow as the established systems expand to enable them to carry increasing quantities of gas to meet mounting demands of existing markets.
